

Jr. High & High School Art News

What a busy start to 2010 we have had in the Art Department!! Students in 3rd through High School are participating in the Aspiring Artist Show at the Freeport Art Museum. The show opens on January 23rd and runs until March 20th. The show has artwork from several area schools on display.

Art Club would like to Thanks everyone who went in to Bocker Auto Group and voted for their window. We didn't place this year, but Bocker generously donates $200 to each participant. Thanks to Bocker for the opportunity!! The money we received will be divided between the students who helped and put towards their trip to Chicago in March. Art Club also held a Root Beer Float sale during lunch on January 14th. It was a success and they are looking to have another one in the near future. Thanks for supporting the Art Club!

The first group of 8th graders started art this quarter. They will be working on woven pouches first. They will also be creating foil puppets, working on their drawing skills and possibly a paper cut design.

High school art is working their way through color. They will end the unit by stretching their own canvas and creating a painting in the same style as a famous artist. Artists have been chosen, designs are being work on. Look for them in the hallways in the coming months.
